Whitehall, 22nd December, 1914.

His Majesty the KING has been graciously pleased to award the Edward Medal of the Second Class to James Kennedy, of the Earnoch Colliery, Lanark, in the following circumstances:—

On the 2nd of June, 1914, about 1.50 p.m., a miner named Neil McKillop was engaged in taking down head coal when the coal fell, pinning down his foot. Kennedy at once went to his assistance and continued to make every effort to release him, notwithstanding two further falls, which occurred at short intervals, completely smothering McKillop. Others having come to his assistance, they managed after three hours' work to release the imprisoned man, who was unfortunately found to be dead.

Kennedy in his endeavour, at first unaided, to save McKillop's life ran grave risk of being himself smothered.

Also to Joseph Cook, of the Blackhouse Colliery, Durham, in the following circumstances:—

On the morning of the 31st of January, 1914, Cook was underground in the Blackhouse Colliery, near the bottom of an old shaft filled with rubbish. Water had accumulated in it, and the weight of the debris so increased burst out the pack walls at the shaft bottom. Seeing the danger, he rushed inbye to warn two shifters named Wilson and Coates, who were working there; they had no way of egress except past the bottom of this shaft. Before the three could get out, the debris filled up the road from floor to roof for a distance of thirty-five yards, completely cutting off their escape. The three men were eventually released after twenty-two hours' confinement.

By his action Cook ran the risk not merely of a long imprisonment, but of suffocation, which must have resulted had the debris proceeded much further.

His Majesty the KING has been graciously pleased to approve of the appointment of the undermentioned Officers to be Companions of the Distinguished Service Order, in recognition of their services with the Expeditionary Force, specified below:—

Captain The Honourable Herbrand Charles Alexander, 5th (Royal Irish) Lancers.

Has done exceedingly good work in action, and in reconnaissance, since the commencement of the war.

Major Alexander George Arbutnot, 24th Battery, Royal Field Artillery.

For very valuable work on several occasions between the 19th October and 23rd November in observing the fire of our batteries and furnishing valuable reports, though under very heavy shell fire from the enemy's guns.

Lieutenant John Dopping Boyd, 1st Battalion, The Queen's (Royal West Surrey Regiment).

For gallant leading of his men on the 31st October, and for consistently good work during the campaign.

Captain Cyril Darcy Vivien Cary-Barnard, 2nd Battalion, The Duke of Edinburgh's (Wiltshire Regiment).

On the 16th November showed conspicuous gallantry and promptitude, on his own initiative, in dislodging, with the aid of about 30 men, a company of Germans who had occupied a trench in our line.

Second Lieutenant Francis Graham, 51st Battery, Royal Field Artillery.

When the Officers of a party of the South Lancashire Regiment were disabled, he took command, and succeeded in holding an important part of our trenches until relief arrived and drove out the enemy, who had effected a footing, the situation being thus saved by his prompt action.

Lieutenant The Honourable Julian Henry Francis Grenfell, 1st (Royal) Dragoons.

On the 17th November he succeeded in reaching a point behind the enemy's trenches and making an excellent reconnaissance, furnishing early information of a pending attack by the enemy.

The Reverend Percy Wyndham Guinness, B.A., Chaplain to the Forces, 3rd Cavalry Brigade.

On the 5th November, at Kruistraat, when Major Dixon, 16th Lancers, was mortally wounded, he went on his own initiative into the trenches, under a heavy fire, and brought him to the ambulance, and on the afternoon of the same day, being the only individual with a horse in the shelled area, took a message, under heavy fire, from the 4th Hussars to the headquarters of the 3rd Cavalry Brigade.

Second Lieutenant Richard Lambert, Intelligence Corps.

For conspicuously gallant conduct in obtaining very valuable information, under most difficult and dangerous conditions.

Lieutenant (Temporary Captain) Donald Swain Lewis, Royal Engineers and Royal Flying Corps.

For valuable information repeatedly furnished to the Royal Artillery in regard to the position of the enemy's guns. His direction of our artillery fire, whilst flying, has constantly led to direct hits on the enemy's batteries and the silencing of their guns.

Lieutenant Noel Yvon Loftus Welman, 1st Battalion, The Duke of Cambridge's Own (Middlesex Regiment).

For gallant conduct at La Boutillerie on 30th October, when the heaviest attack was launched by the enemy on the platoon which he commanded, eleven of the enemy were killed on the parapet and two others in front, Lieutenant Welman accounting for three of the number himself.

Captain Gerald Charles Balfour Buckland, 2nd Battalion, 8th Gurkha Rifles.

Near Festubert, on 23rd November, displayed great gallantry in leading a counter attack which led to decisive results. He then, although wounded, returned and brought up reinforcements.

Captain Robert Foster Dill, 129th Duke of Connaught's Own Baluchis.

At Hollebeke, on 31st October, when wounded by a shell, continued to fight his machine gun section until one gun was put out of action and the whole detachment of the other gun was killed.

Captain Lionel Douglas Vernon, 37th Battery, Royal Field Artillery.

Near Neuve Chapelle, on 1st November, although severely wounded, laid a telephone wire to the forward trenches and continued to observe throughout the day, and by this act enabled the Battery Commander to range accurately on the enemy's trenches.
